How to Be a Dog Maxwell Woofington's Guide to Living with Humans and Getting the Upper Paw

Maxwell Woofington and Mark Leigh

Description

Written by a dog, and with helpful additions by other dogs, How to Be a Dog is essential reading not only for all canines but also for their owners and dog lovers, providing an insight into their pet's sometimes curious behaviour.

As you'd expect from a book written by a dog about humans, this book is irreverent, cynical and disrespectful. Dogs provide helpful observations and advice on specific issues: for example, how to retain any semblance of self-esteem while wearing the 'Cone of Shame' anti-scratch collar or how to really frustrate your owner when playing 'fetch'.

How to Be a Dog is the official rulebook of the doggie world – a hilarious guide for living with – or putting up with – humans, and always getting the upper hand (or paw).

Sales Points

- Discover what your dog really thinks about you with this humorous guide to the world as seen through a dog's eyes
- Written by a dog for dogs (and their owners), it provides observations and advice on issues such as the perils and pitfalls of walkies, how to avoid bath time, the logistics of catching a ball and how to appear cute on demand
- Perfect for anyone who finds themselves looking at dog blogs in their lunch break!
- Penned by Maxwell Woofington, who draws on his seven years' experience as a pet. This is his first book

Author Biography

A pedigree cocker spaniel, Maxwell Woofington sees himself less as Man's Best Friend and more as his very cynical and irreverent acquaintance. Max wrote How to Be a Dog by drawing on his seven years of experience as a pet and the invaluable insights of his many canine pals. Practising what he preaches, Max continues to be the alpha male of the Leigh family with whom he lives in Surrey, England.

This is the first book he's written (although he's chewed many more).
