

THE 10 WORST OF EVERYTHING

The Big Book of Bad

Michael O'Mara Books

A celebration of failures, doom, disaster, mistakes, miscalculations, hubris, folly and really, really bad albums. Written by the author of the cult hit, Crap Towns.

Most books celebrate the exceptions rather than the rule. They focus on sharing the over-achieving, unique and strange success stories from across the globe. They don't provide a fair reflection of the general tide of history - but they do make your average reader feel, well, more average.

Sam Jordison - with his trademark humour, cynicism and passion for statistics - redresses this imbalance and shows that there's nearly always someone worse off than you. Which is reassuring.

The perfect gift book for pessimists, The 10 Worst of Everything is a fascinating compendium of disappointing facts about the world, vital information about places to avoid and mind-boggling information about medicine, history, science, pop culture misses, and everything in-between.

Discover:

- The ten worst films of all time
- The ten most foolish health fads
- The ten most over-rated albums of all time
- Nature's deadliest plants
- The ten most pitiable commutes
- The ten most egregious examples of bollock-minded management speak

And many more mistakes made by humankind, lists available on request.

Sam Jordison (@samjordison) is a journalist, author and publisher. He writes for the Guardian and is the author of several best-selling books, including the Crap Towns series, and most recently, Literary London, co-written with Eloise Millar. He is also the co-director of the award-winning indie publisher Galley Beggar Press. He lives in Norwich. Aha!

Sam is available for PR, to write pieces and expand on any lists from the book
